U. S. AVIATORS FIRST ACROSS WESTERN SEA

Plane Lands at Wenatchee, Washington, Ending 4,565-Mile Flight.

FEAT WINS $25,000 PRIZE

Craft Slightly Damaged in Coming Down Without Landing Gear.

By The Associated Press

WENATCHEE, Wash., Oct. 5—Completing the first non-stop airplane flight across the Pacific ocean, Clyde Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, American fliers, landed here today.

The plane landed on her "belly," tipped over on her nose and then settled back. She slid along slowly in a cloud of dust.

The plane came to rest on its left wing. Its propeller was smashed in the landing. Aviators described it as a "fish tail" landing.

Before coming down the fliers circled over a few minutes and dumped their excess gasoline in order to prevent any possible breakout of fire when they hit the ground minus landing gear, which had been dropped shortly after their take-off at Samushiro Beach, Japan.

Get $25,000 Prize

Successful in spanning the long stretch of fog-haunted ocean which had balked the efforts of many other aviators, Pangborn and Herndon came in line to receive the $25,000 prize offered by the Tokyo newspaper Asahi for the first non-stop airplane flight between Japan and the United States.

Pangborn and Herndon said they would fly to Dallas, Tex., nonstop from here, to win an additional $25,000 prize which they said is offered by a wealthy Texan for the first flight from Japan to that city with only one stop en route.

From Samushiro Beach to Wenatchee over the course plotted by the fliers before they started, the distance is approximately 4,565 miles, which falls considerably short of the distance record set last July by Russel Boardman and John Polando in flying from New York to Istanbul, Turkey, 5,011 miles.

Pangborn and Herndon went directly from the field to a hotel for a much needed sleep.

Barograph Causes Trouble

They said the fact their barograph was not functioning was one reason they did not continue in an attempt to break the Boardman-Polando distance record.

The fliers said they would need a new landing gear and a new propeller before they can continue to Texas. They expected it would be about 10 days before they would be able to leave.

Pangborn and Herndon spanned the Pacific in 41 hours.

The fliers left Samushiro at 5:01 p. m. (Marion time) Saturday and landed today at 10:14 a. m.

Pangborn's mother, who lives here, was crying when she greeted him. Both men had left the plane.

HARDING MEMORIAL GROUP HERE TODAY

Association Holds Annual Meeting at Hotel; To Report on Dedication.

The annual meeting of the Harding Memorial association was held at Hotel Harding this afternoon. No matters of unusual importance were to come before the association today, Hoke Donithen, secretary, said this morning.

A dinner at 12 followed by a business session was the program of the meeting. Action on reports covering the dedication of the memorial last June and on routine business was expected to be taken.

Many members of the association, because of the distance of their residence from Marion, were not expected to attend.

Officers of the association are Calvin Coolidge, honorary president; J. S. Frelinghuysen, former New Jersey senator, president; J. F. Pennington, vice president; C. B. King, second vice president; Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, third vice president; Hoke Donithen, secretary; A. W. Mellon, secretary.

Executive committee members are Hoke Donithen, Dr. Carl W. Sawyer, Charles S. Bird, M. E. Fawcett, Roger E. Miller, C. D. Schaus, Dr. J. Wesley Hire, Dr. E. E. Wyeth, Dr. R. Ray Ming.

IN LONG FLIGHT OVER SEA

Much of the world's interest was centered today on the daring voyage of Clyde Pangborn (above at left), and Hugh Herndon (right) in which they sought to complete the first non-stop flight between Japan and the United States and receive a $25,000 prize as their reward.

7th COOKING SCHOOL WILL OPEN OCT. 13

The Star To Sponsor Annual Event; Miss Edna M. Ferguson To Lecture.

Marion's seventh annual cooking school, sponsored by The Star, will open Tuesday, Oct. 13 and will continue for four days. Miss Edna M. Ferguson, who will lecture and demonstrate this year, is a nationally known authority on cookery and home making.

Housewives of Marion, the county and vicinity are invited to attend the school, which has been arranged for their pleasure and their further information in new recipes menu planning and home making methods.

As in former years, a nursery will be open in The Star auditorium for the convenience of mothers with children and who wish to attend the school. Mrs. Beatrice Secord will be in charge of the nursery.

Doors of the auditorium will open at 1 p. m. and lectures will start promptly at 2 p. m. Between 1:30 and 2, a program of music will be given for the entertainment of those attending the school.

No admission will be charged for any of the four afternoon session of the school. Together with the unusual demonstrations and cookery, free recipes of the dishes prepared by Miss Ferguson on the platform, will be distributed.

This year especially, women will find the school of value. Economical, money saving suggestions will be offered at each session. The school also will include novel ideas for entertaining and for serving unusual dishes.

A model kitchen will be furnished on the stage, with furniture from Marion stores. Besides this model kitchen in which Miss Ferguson will cook and answer questions as she cooks, there will be other home making appliances on display.

At the close of each session the women will be asked to the platform to examine the kitchen equipment and the dishes Miss Ferguson has prepared.

Six full baskets of groceries will be given away by Marion dealers each day. Further details of the school will be announced later.

FARMHAND HELD IN SLAYING OF FOUR

Wisconsin Man Confesses Murder of Two Men, Girl and Baby.

By The Associated Press

KENOSHA, Wis., Oct. 5—Police held Frank Gray, a 40-year-old farmhand, today for the murder of a girl, two men and a little baby.

Gray confessed the killings to Kenosha police, but added:

"I didn't aim to kill the baby."

The murders were committed at the Boschert farm house near Burlington, Wis.

Those found dead in the farm home yesterday were:

Frank Obschert, 60, of Burlington; his son, Herbert, 30; Herbert's son, Donny, 10 months old; and Miss Celia Markham, 25, employed on the farm.

The adults had been killed by shotgun slugs and the baby beaten to death with a hammer.

The girl's body was found in an upstairs bedroom used by Gray, police said. The baby's body was in the boy's bed. The men shared rooms on a lower floor.

"I didn't aim to kill the baby," police quoted him.

The elder Obschert was not in the house at the time but Gray said he killed him when he returned. His body was discovered in the lower part of the house.

Gray told the Boschert farm in the Boschert automobile. He was arrested when he was found in a milk truck parked here.

"Sure I shot 'em," he reportedly told police.

SENATOR MORROW FOUND DEAD IN BED

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—United States Senator Dwight W. Morrow of New Jersey, died today at 1:52 p. m. of a cerebral hemorrhage in his home at Englewood, N. J. He was found dead in bed.

A brief announcement of Senator Morrow's death was issued from his office here merely giving the fact and place of his death and saying that his passing was peaceful.

He was the father-in-law of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh.

When Calvin Coolidge, as a senior at Amherst college in 1895, voted for the man in the class "most likely to succeed," he picked Dwight Whitney Morrow. Thirty-two years later the then president of the United States helped make his prophecy come true by naming his classmate as ambassador to Mexico, a post which brought Mr. Morrow an international reputation and paved the way for his election as United States senator from New Jersey.

But previously the Coolidge estimate had been vindicated by Mr. Morrow's successful career, first in law, then as a member of the banking firm of J. P. Morgan & Company and as an adviser to the Allied Maritime Transport Council in the world war days of 1918. This latter activity netted only slender returns, but it brought him the Distinguished Service Medal of the United States and citations from France, Italy and Greece. Colonel John J. Pershing described Mr. Morrow's work in connection with the military terms of the armistice as "unsurpassed in the war," a judgment concurred in by General Charles G. Dawes.

Mr. Morrow's achievements in peacetime were no less brilliant. He was a member of the firm of Morgan, Grenfell & Company, London, from 1914 to 1927, when he resigned to become a partner in J. P. Morgan & Company, New York. He was chairman of the board of directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York from 1927 to 1929, when he resigned to become senator from New Jersey.

He was born January 11, 1873, in Huntington, W. Va., the son of Dwight Morrow, a lawyer, and Cora Reed Morrow. He graduated from Amherst with an A.B. degree in 1895 and received an LL.B. degree from Columbia University in 1899.

It was President Coolidge's knowledge of Mr. Morrow's talents as a conciliator that prompted him to appoint the banker in 1925 as chairman of the board which studied the dispute over coal mining in the Pittsburgh coal district. This board, which settled the dispute after a bitter struggle between operators and miners which threatened the nation's industries, was the first of a series of boards which Mr. Morrow headed.

Two years later he was appointed by President Coolidge to head the commission which settled the dispute between Mexico and the United States over the confiscation of American property by the Mexican government.

Harding Takes it on the Chin from Delaware, 13-6

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK

IF one were to visit the silk mill practice field of the Harding football team today, it is quite probable he would hear some very pointed comments as to just how bad Harding looked in losing to Delaware last Saturday. After a promising start against Columbus South a week previous, the Presidents displayed a startling reversal of form and were beaten as a result.

The line play of Harding against Delaware was pathetic. Much heavier than the out-of-town team, the Red and Black linemen were outcharged and driven back on nearly every play. The general play brought back unpleasant visions of the same kind of work in 1930 that did a lot to keep Harding from winning more than one game in the entire season.

* * *

The backfield work against Delaware was little if any better than the line. The tackling and blocking of the backs was nothing short of terrible. The hard running that marked the Columbus South game was conspicuous by its absence. It is true there were not very many holes made in the enemy line through which backs could slip for gains. However, when three widely separated holes did appear the Harding backs acted like they might be something to be avoided. They certainly did a good job of avoiding them!

* * *

Despite the fact that Harding was thumped by Delaware, hope that the Presidents will have a fairly successful season has not spread its wings and flown to the far regions. The beating absorbed Saturday may serve to convince the wearers of the Red and Black that whenever they adopt the flippant attitude which marked most of their practice sessions last week, they are paving the way for another beating. Future games aren't won on past performances. The sooner Harding's players discover this fact the more games will be entered in the victory column of the Church street institution of learning.

* * *

The quest for the pennant in the North Central Ohio scholastic league will get under way this week. Harding will travel to Ashland to meet "Rosie" Starn's Hilltoppers, and Mansfield will pry the league lid off with Galion at Galion. Bucyrus will have an open date and Shelby will defer the league opening for another week, meeting a non league opponent in Upper Sandusky at Shelby.

The outcome of Harding's game with Ashland will more than likely indicate if Harding is to turn in a creditable record or if she will again flounder through a dismal season. We choose to prefer the former. It is almost impossible to see how Harding can not have at least a fairly good year with the material available for the team.

PRESIDENTS LOOK BAD AS VISITORS PASS TO VICTORY

"Our Boys" Suddenly Discover They Can Still Improve—but It's Too Late To Help.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

UP UNTIL Saturday afternoon of last week, Harding High school's football team had not met Delaware since sometime back in the season of 1928. Today there is considerable reason to believe that Harding gridders would be in a slightly more cheerful frame of mind had Delaware been left off the Presidents' schedule for another year or so. For these Delaware boys romped onto Fairground field here Saturday and proceeded to give Harding a very convincing pasting, beating them 13-6 and generally making them appear more like a bunch of second raters than a good football team.

In the first game of the season, a week ago, for both teams Delaware was handed a 27-0 beating by Toledo Central and Harding gained a moral victory over Columbus South, the score being 6-6. As a result the general consensus was that Harding would have no more than average difficulty in stopping the Carlisle-coached aggregation.

Apparently Delaware couldn't see that the results of a former game would have very much to do with their playing against Harding. On the other hand, Harding seemed to forget that the results of the past week would have nothing to do with how the Delaware game ended. There is the best explanation of the Delaware victory over Harding.

Started Out Fast

Delaware wasted but little time in getting its attack started after the first kickoff. Clay kicked off to the Delaware 20 where Hatvging's heavy line stopped two Delaware attempts to gain and Delaware booted the ball back to the Harding 45. Keller then fumbled the ball on an off tackle play and Flemming fell on it for Delaware on the Delaware 35 yard stripe. Delaware picked up a first down and then was forced to kick again, the ball going out of bounds on Harding's 33.

Harding failed to gain and Guthrie kicked to the Delaware 40 from where Harding was penalized 15 yards for tackling the receiver who had signalled for a fair catch.

Heinlen, Delaware quarterback and one of the best high school passers seen in some time, then flipped a lengthy aerial heave to P. Sell on Harding's seven yard stripe to pave the way for the first touchdown of the game. Heinlen promptly tossed a second pass to Ross who crossed the goal line unmolested. The try for point failed.

Apparently awakening to the fact they were playing no dub football team, Harding then loosed an offensive which swept Delaware back and resulted in Lindsey crossing the line for a touchdown shortly after the second period got under way. Clay's attempted drop kick for the extra point failed.

Attack Folded Up

Having deadlocked the score at 6-6 Harding folded up its attack and placed it somewhere "among my souvenirs." The one touchdown drive in the first half was the only time in the game when Harding displayed anything like the powerful drive which characterized its play in the first game of the season a week previous.

The Presidents made a somewhat feeble effort to get their offense clicking again at the start of the third quarter but after a few substantial gains on off tackle thrusts and end runs, the effort faded into something less than nothing and Harding was buffeted around over the greensward for the rest of the game.

Delaware loosed another aerial barrage in the fourth period that carried them more than half the length of the field and netted them the winning touchdown. Heinlen booted the extra point on the second touchdown.

A Futile Attempt

Sensing defeat late in the fourth frame, Harding turned loose a veritable rain of forward passes, but most of them were either incomplete or intercepted. Pickerel put some new heart into the team when he grabbed one for an 18 yard gain late in the game but the effect was suddenly nullified as Fleming of Delaware intercepted the next toss and lost the ball for Harding.

The game ended with Harding still tossing passes from deep in defensive territory

Dave Cook, Illinois—Scored all three touchdowns against St. Louis.

Bob Wilson Washington & Jefferson—Beat Carnegie with field goal from 18-yard line.

Joe Sheketski, Notre Dame—Starred with 70-yard run against Indiana.

Fred Hecker, onetime prep gold star at Houston, Tex., now on the Purdue squad, may receive a Carnegie medal for saving two persons from drowning.

OHIO COLLEGE TEAMS LAUNCH CONFERENCE SEASONS SATURDAY

Few Elevens Will Meet Non-League Foes; Wesleyan to Syracuse.

BY JAMES L. RENICK
Associated Press Sports Writer.

COLUMBUS, O. Oct. 5—With practice games either won or lost, Ohio college football teams will settle down to the serious business of playing conference opponents or further testing their strength against stronger foes.

In the Buckeye Athletic association three league games are on the books for Saturday, two of them involving new members of the circuit, Wabash and De Pauw, the latter playing Cincinnati at Queen City and Wabash meeting Miami at Oxford. In the other B. A. A. tilt Ohio university will start the defence of its two years old title by meeting Denison at Granville.

Bishops Travel

Ohio fans will watch with interest Coach George Gauthier and his battling Bishops from Ohio Wesleyan this week when they go to Syracuse for their annual tussle. If Wesleyan wins this encounter it will be the first Ohio team to win an out-of-state game this season.

Two games are booked by Northwest Ohio conference teams, the strong Defiance eleven with a pair of victories to its credit, meeting Findlay. This will be the only league game as Bowling Green takes on Western Reserve at Cleveland and Bluffton is idle.

Ohio conference teams also face a busy week, Capital going to Marietta, Case playing John Carroll, a game that is creating a great deal of interest in Cleveland, and Otterbein playing at Heidelberg. Akron will open a belated season by entertaining Kent state and Baldwin Wallace, tied in its first two starts, will meet Hiram at that place. Ohio Northern and Oberlin will take on out-of-state foes, the Bears meeting Kentucky State, at Ada, and Oberlin playing Hillsdale, Mich.

Wilberforce will take its first trip of the year going to Jefferson City, Mo., to play Lincoln university.

The Night Games

Five nocturnal games are scheduled for Friday night, one an intersectional game between Centre and Wittenberg at Springfield. The others include Muskingum at Mount Union, Kenyon at Ashland, two conference games, while Georgetown, Ky., will play at Xavier and Wilmington meets Dayton.

Games over the week-end ran true to form, Bowling Green furnishing the only upset of the day with its 6 to 0 victory over Mount Union.

By scoring three touchdowns and a like number of points after touchdown Friday night against Kenyon, Pinnington of Xavier jumped into the scoring lead in the state with 21 points.

A total of 103 touchdowns have been scored by Ohio teams in the last two weeks while 67 of 43 attempts for the extra point have been good, 12 of these being by passes or line plays.

Strange enough, only one field goal has been registered on Ohio soil this season and that was made by Hillsdale, Michigan, Saturday, giving the visiting team a three point margin over Denison.

LOSES BATTLE

Valiant Fight for Life Fails as Grid Star Succumbs.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 — Reuben Getschow, who recovered from a broken back and became a football star, lost his fight for life against a broken neck.

The 23-year-old captain of Elmhurst, Ill., college football team, who suffered a broken neck in his eleven's victorious contest with Valparaiso, Ind., university a week ago, died yesterday just before teammates arrived at the hospital to tell him that they had beaten Milwaukee teachers.

Getschow suffered a broken back in a rock fall on a construction job near his home at Appleton, Wis., four years ago. He lived, and his ability earned him the Elmhurst captaincy.

GREEN BAY CHALKS UP FOURTH IN ROW

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5 — The Green Bay Packers, National professional champions, chalked up their fourth consecutive victory of the season, by defeating the New York Giants, 27 to 7, at Green Bay, yesterday. Red Flaherty, end, made the Giants' lone touchdown in the first period.

A third quarter field goal by Ken Strong from the 30-yard line enabled Stapleton to nose out Brooklyn 9 to 7, at Staten Island. It was Stapleton's opening game. Philadelphia and Providence battled to an 0-0 tie in a third league game at Providence.

Morral Wins.

Morral defeated Essex Sunday afternoon 15-3 in a baseball game played on the Morral diamond. Morral collected 15 hits and had no errors against three hits and two errors for the losers. Batteries for the game were, Morral, Mercer and Koonyx; Essex, Honaker and Strand.

Lou Hassell, Rice Institute tackle, labored all summer on a Connecticut farm and worked his way from Brooklyn to Houston on an oil tanker.

North and South at Grid War Again

COACH HARRY MEHRE COACH MAL STEVENS CAPT ALBIE BOOTH

When the University of Georgia gridmen trot out on the greensward of the Yale bowl at New Haven, Conn., on Oct. 10 to do battle with the Bulldogs in another North vs. South pigskin classic, they do so with the supreme confidence that what they did last year, when they trounced Old Eli, 13-14, they can repeat this season. The Georgians will be led by the doughty Captain Austin H. Downs and their fiery mentor, Coach Harry Mehre. Above are some of the principals of the battle.

Big Ten Crown Aspirants Open Title Race Saturday

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO Oct. 5—Notre Dame's whole football season will be on the block Saturday when the raiders meet Northwestern for charity in Chicago's Soldier field.

The Big Ten championship season will open with two games the same day, but the battle between the Irish and Wildcats overshadows anything else on the schedule and probably will be fought before 100,000 spectators. Notre Dame will be out to carve another notch toward a third consecutive undefeated season, as well as trying for a new all-time Notre Dame record of 21 straight victories.

Northwestern will be after another victory toward a national championship season, and with a lust for revenge.

Notre Dame accounted for its twentieth consecutive triumph Saturday by defeating Indiana, 25 to 0, after a rather uncertain start. Northwestern demonstrated that it has great power in its 19 to 7 victory over Nebraska, and one of the most sensational battles of the season appears certain.

Maroon vs. Wolverines

Michigan, apparently more powerful than last season when it shared the Western conference title with Northwestern, will entertain Chicago, in one of the openers of the championship campaign while Illinois' sophomore experiment will tackle Purdue's veteran squad at Lafayette, Ind. The Wolverines should defeat the Maroons, while Purdue is favored to outfinish Bob Zuppke's youngsters. Michigan opened up last Saturday with a pair of victories, defeating Central teachers and Michigan Normal 27 and 34 to 0, respectively. The Maroons defeated Cornell of Iowa by two touchdowns two weeks ago, but took a 7 to 0 beating from Hillsdale, Mich. college.

Sox Wallop Cubs.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 5 — Chicago's White Sox needed only one more victory today in the city championship series with the Cubs to reveal that the eighth place in the American league is better than the National league's third place team.

The Sox yesterday belabored Charlie Root, Bob Smith and Pat Malone, thee Cub aces, for 15 hits to score a 13 to 6 victory and take their third game of the series. The Cubs had two victories and had to win today or give the title back to the southsiders.

A home run by Smead Jolley with the bases loaded in the fifth inning of yesterday's contest put the Sox in front.

Bruin Club Sued.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—A foul ball from the bat of Paul Waner, Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder, may cost the Chicago Cubs some money. Miss Elizabeth Marie Klaus of Chicago, has filed the praecipe of a suit for $30,000 against the club charging that foul ball by Waner last April 17, struck her and cost the sight of an eye.

MANSFIELD, GALION IN EASY VICTORIES

Tygers Romp Over Aquinas 33-6; Orangemen Crush Crestline Eleven.

Mansfield High school gave some indication of its 1931 strength Saturday when the Tygers ran roughshod over the Columbus Aquinas team, winning by a score of 33-6. The Murphy-coached team had things pretty much its own way with the Capital city Irish lineup, buffeting them around over the field most of the game. Aquinas put up a hard fight but could not cope with the heavier and better-drilled opponents.

While Mansfield was chalking up its second consecutive one-sided victory of the year, Galion was opening its season at Crestline by beating the smaller school's team by a 54-0 score. Galion displayed unexpected power although favored to beat the Crestline eleven.

Shelby High school fell prey to Willard, a non-league foe, in another Saturday tussle, losing 19-0. Coach "Chick" Young's boys failed to show very much power and were outclassed from start to finish by the veteran Willard eleven.

Galion and Mansfield will clash Saturday of this week in the first league engagement of the year for both teams.

WRESTLING SEASON OPENS TONIGHT AT STEAM SHOVEL GYM

Inaugural Card Promises More Action Than an Election in Chicago.

Wrestling will have its revival in Marion tonight at the Shovel gym when Joe Banaski, former king of the lightweights, clashes with Pat Riley, of Dublin Ireland in the two best out of three falls main bout of Clete Kauffman's show.

Announcement of the revival of the sport here for the coming winter season has been well received by local fans and a renewed interest in the toe twisting sport is being evinced in this section.

The strength of the opening card is also expected to pull a near capacity house to the Shovel gym.

Banaski is one of the most well known and liked grapplers in the world and is ranked highly in mat circles.

He'll be making his debut into the ranks of the junior heavyweight tonight when he goes against the internationally known Irisher, and Banaski will be shooting for a place among the front rank of the 185-190 pounders if he gets by Riley.

The semi-final of tonight's show should also be productive of more action than a Chicago election.

This bout scheduled to go one fall with a 45-minute limit will bring together the two smashing heavyweights Charlie Santem of Kirksville, Mo and Dick Lever, Nashville, Tenn "bad boy."

Lever is one of the roughest youngsters in the mat game today and his rough style together with his 215 pounds of bulk makes him extremely hard for any heavyweight to handle.

However Santen is no shrinking violet and dynamite should be on tap in huge sticks when these two come to grips.

SAINTS DROP TILT IN MINOR SERIES

By The Associated Press

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 5—Three games to the good, the International league champions from Rochester were enroute home today where they will resume play against St. Paul for the little world series title Tuesday.

The Red Wings were a big favorite to win from the American Association titleholders which in the four game series here showed lack of dependable pitching.

Huck Betts, the mainstay of the Saints' staff and the only hurler to beat Rochester, lost his second start against the eastern club yesterday when he fed George Puccinello a ball down the middle with the count 3 and 2. The right fielder socked it for a home run over the left field wall and a 2 to 1 triumph.

Manager Del Baker of the Beaumont, Texas league team thinks night baseball has hurt the game more than anything in 20 years.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO

Proposing to amend the constitution of Ohio by adopting a section to be numbered as section 2b of Article VIII and constitution for the purpose of authorizing the contracting of debt of the state in an aggregate amount not exceeding seven million five hundred thousand dollars to supply funds for the construction and repair of buildings, the equipment and furnishing thereof, and the purchase of land for the use of the welfare institutions of the state; and to fund and authorize the issuance of bonds and direct the levy of taxes sufficient to pay the interest and principal thereof.

Amount of Bonds Authorized to be Issued $7,500,000.

Maximum Rate of Interest 6% Per Annum.

Three Bonds to be Issued between November 4, 1931, and July 1, 1933.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of all the members elected to each house concurring therein:

Section 1. There shall be submitted to the electors of the State of Ohio for their approval or rejection, at the general election on the Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1931, a proposal to amend the constitution of Ohio by adopting a section to be designated as section 2b of article VIII of said constitution, reading as follows:

ARTICLE VIII.

Section 2b. "The Commissioners of the Sinking Fund" created by this article set forthwith upon the adoption of this amendment, proceed to issue and sell at public sale, from time to time, under such regulations as they may by order promulgate, so much less than but not exceeding in the aggregate the total sum of seven million five hundred thousand dollars of bonds of the State of Ohio, bearing interest at not to exceed five per cent per annum, payable semi-annually, and maturing in ten equal annual installments commencing not later than the first day of January, 1934, and not earlier than eighteen months after the issuance of any such bonds. No such bonds shall be issued to mature later than the first day of January, 1943. The proceeds of the sale of such bonds shall be paid into the treasury of the State of Ohio to the credit of a fund hereby created and hereby pledged for the payment of such bonds and the interest thereon, which fund shall be known as "The State Welfare Rehabilitation Fund". Said fund shall be expended without appropriation by the General Assembly, but subject to appropriation and allotment by the emergency board, for the purpose of supplying funds as determined by the director of public welfare, for the construction and repair of buildings, the equipment and furnishing thereof and the purchase of land for the use of institutions for the new welfare and penal institutions of the state, and for no other purpose. There is hereby pledged for the payment of the interest upon such bonds as the same become due, and of the principal thereof, as the same mature, and to the extent necessary, any fund or funds in the state treasury, available by law for appropriation for the purposes for which such bonds shall have been issued, and any appropriation made to the commissioners of the Sinking Fund to the extent necessary; but the General Assembly may make appropriations for the payment of such bonds in such form and manner as made shall not impair the obligation of contract with the holders of bonds issued and unappropriated moneys shall be first drawn. The full faith and credit of the State of Ohio is hereby pledged for the payment of said bonds and the interest thereon. Upon the issuance and sale of each series of bonds the commissioners of the Sinking Fund shall certify to the Secretary of State the aggregate amount of the bonds so issued and sold, and thereupon the amount of bonds authorized to be issued by this section 1 hereof shall be reduced by the amount of such bonds. The fiscal agency of the state shall supervise the printing of all bonds issued under authority of this section and shall prescribe such forms of the ballots to be cast for or against the proposal to issue bonds as mentioned in section 1 hereof as in its opinion of the proposal thereof. Bonds issued under authority of this section shall not be included in the amount of bonds authorized to be issued during any fiscal year in excess of the maximum rate of interest established by law for the purpose for which the same are issued.

Adopted June 25, 1931.

WHEAT AGAIN SLIPS LOWER

Corn Deliveries Hit New Lows as Market Follows Securities' Drop.

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Oct. 5—Fresh downturns in grain prices early today accompanied lower quotations on securities. All deliveries of corn reached a new low price record for the season. Wheat declines were in the face of almost 5,000,000 bushels decrease of the amount on ocean passage Opening ¼ cent off to ¼ up, wheat afterward held near the initial range. Corn started ⅝ ¾ down but later rallied.

Wheat and oats as well as corn outdid the season's low price records Big receipts of corn here, 481 cars compared with 197 at this time last year, had an immediate bearish effect On the price setbacks, however, buying increased, causing wheat and corn to rise temporarily to above Saturday's close. Offerings of wheat at Liverpool were reported smaller, especially from Argentina.

Helping the wheat rallies was notice taken of announcements that the federal farm board would authorize wheat sales by the grain stabilization corporation to relief agencies, and would accept deferred payments. There were also estimates that 1931 wheat production in 35 countries now stood at 2,997,000,000 bushels against 3,140,000,000 bushels in the same countries last year Furthermore, bulls contended that the lower wheat prices went the better was the value as well as the greater the prospect of reduced production

Veteran C. & O. Employe Gets Diamond Pin for 50 Years Service with Road

H. C. Paddock Honored by Fellow Employes and Company President.

A diamond service pin received from the president of the railway together with a personal letter, the compliments of his fellow workers and the satisfaction of looking back over an active career were the big events for H C. Paddock of 456 south Prospect street in the recent celebration of his fiftieth anniversary of service for the Hocking Valley railroad now part of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway

Gets Diamond Pin

Paddock received his diamond pin from J J Bernet, president of the C. & O at the annual meeting of the veteran employes of the road at Huntington, W. Va., last month the only one in the northern section of the Hocking division to be honored Three others in the Hocking division received the pins from the president and five more from the entire system Membership in the association requires 25 years of service and 1,220 members were present at the meeting The Hocking division was represented by 250.

Looking back over 50 active years of railroad work, Mr Paddock marvels at the changes and developments made during that time. He recalls the time when a 14 ton freight car was a monster and a 36-car train was a capacity load Now, he says the cars are rated from 70 to 100 tons and trains are made up of 150 cars

Mr Paddock entered railroad work Sept 1 1881, on a carpenter gang of which the late Henry Barnhart was general foreman Barnhart later figured in the organization of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. Mr Paddock's next step was made on July 1, 1884, when he became a clerk in the freight department under the late Harry Culbertson He worked in this capacity until April 1, 1915 when he was made car service clerk in the freight department under the late Emerson Dombaugh He now holds this position under C. E Sergeant freight agent.

Sees Roads Start

His railroad work really started, he said, when the first discussion of bringing railroads to Marion started in 1874 the year he came here from Delaware with his parents, Mr and Mrs W R Paddock Meetings were held at the old City hall where the present city parking lot is, to raise public subscriptions to bring the road here and he, with his school chum William Haberman, attended every meeting. The actual survey for the road was made in 1875 The first train came through in 1876 when the two boys ran out of their school class not knowing it was to be dismissed for the occasion, and rode on the train to Columbus, Mr Paddock relates This road, the Columbus & Toledo, was later succeeded by the Columbus, Hocking Valley and Toledo, the Hocking Valley and now the Chesapeake & Ohio

The same week as his celebration of 50 years service was full of anniversaries, it seems as in addition to receiving the highly prized pin he had observed his seventieth birthday anniversary a few days before and a few days afterwards Mr and Mrs Paddock celebrated their twenty second wedding anniversary, all taking place in one week

Mrs Paddock was an employe of the Hocking Valley for 14 years before they were married.

Family of Railroaders

Mrs Paddock's family also runs to railroad work, with a brother, John Miller of 400 north State street having served 25 years as a yard engineer, another, George N. Miller of Willard, O., formerly of Marion, with 20 years as a yard foreman and two brothers-in-laws with a total 42 years of service between them Her father, the late H C Miller, was an employe of the Hocking Valley for 48 years and also worked in his office when he was general foreman

With no intentions of retiring, Mr Paddock is looking forward to many more years of service "Work" he said "is the only thing that will keep a man happy and contented"

"Night Nurse," closing at the Ohio Wednesday, offers plenty of thrills and tells an interesting story It isn't one of those "great" pictures but it has a story to tell and does it. Barbara Stanwyck makes good in her role of a night nurse, ably assisted by pert Joan Blondell as a fellow-nurse

Clark Gable has the despicable role of a chauffeur in a wealthy family who attempts to kill the two small children and get their trust fund Ben Lyon is a thoroughly likeable young bootlegger who falls in love with the night nurse Blanche Friderici has a fairly important small part as the housekeeper who discovers the plot to kill the children. CARHARTT'S WIN FRIENDS BY THE WAY THEY WEAR!

KLEINMAIERS

You purchase shoes, fruit and candy. You call for cigarettes.

It's like this: WHEN YOU GO TO BUY A PAIR OF SHOES, you examine the leather, the way the shoes are made, their shape. You try them to see if they fit—if they satisfy you.

Why not follow the same method in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes that are made from the very best tobacco—mild, ripe, sweet. You want them made right. You want them free from harshness and bite and "pinches." In other words, you want cigarettes that satisfy you.

WHEN YOU GO TO BUY FRUIT—oranges, grapefruit, apples—you want ripe fruit, fruit that has matured before being taken from the tree; fruit that has been handled right and packed right; fruit that's the same throughout—not green on one side and ripe on the other.

Why not apply the same test in purchasing your cigarettes? You want cigarettes made from tobaccos handled right by the farmer—ripened, sweetened in the sun and cured right. You want cigarettes that taste the same, day in and day out. You want them pleasing in taste—mild and satisfying.

WHEN YOU BUY CANDY, you want to know, above all things, that it is pure. Is it real candy or are there a lot of other things mixed in with it? And you want it fresh. You want it freshly made and you want it so packed as to reach you just as it was when it was made.

Why not apply the same test when you buy your cigarettes? You want a cigarette that's pure; for purity counts in cigarettes just as it does in candy. Then again, you want a cigarette that's just as fresh as when it was made.

Now, if you apply to cigarettes all the tests that you apply in buying shoes and fruit and candy you will purchase CHESTERFIELD like millions of other smokers.

First, because tobacco men will tell you that in Turkey, Kentucky, Georgia, the Carolinas, Virginia, and Maryland, only the mildest, ripest tobacco is bought for CHESTERFIELD—tobacco cured by the sun's pure rays, by the farmers' slow-burning ovens, and finally by great high-pressure steam drying machines. In the tobacco regions where they grow tobacco and know tobacco, CHESTERFIELD is usually the leading seller.

Second, because the carefully selected CHESTERFIELD tobacco leaves are blended and cross-blended. This exclusive CHESTERFIELD blending method is not just mixing together different tobaccos—it is mixing them in such a way as to bring out the finer qualities of each. It's like producing a new and better type of tobacco—tobacco with greater mildness, more smoothness, much better taste.

Third, because the cigarette paper is selected with the same care. CHESTERFIELD paper is the purest, the best that money can buy. Then the cigarettes are made and packed by machinery in clean, sanitary factories. And the moisture-proof, attractive package—free from heavy inks or inky odor—comes to you just as if you passed the factory in the morning and took your CHESTERFIELDS from the machine.

Good . . . they've got to be good.

Bookmyer has perfected a conveyor which, he says, will carry the corn from the cutter to the shock, holding it erect at all times.

In tests, the machine averaged a shock every four and a half minutes when pulled behind a tractor. This would be an average of 125 shocks of corn a day, Bookmyer said. The machine would move slightly slower if pulled behind a team.

Four times Bookmyer rebuilt the machine on which he has been working, each time bringing it nearer perfection. With such minor changes as he now has in mind, he believes the shocker will be a time-saving device for harvesting corn.

Bocymyer has obtained a patent on the conveyor feature. He is negotiating with several manufacturers with a view to marketing a machine embodying his improvements in the near future.

For several years, Bookmyer has been employed with the Marion Implement Co., and before that was employed at the Huber Manufacturing Co. He is a former Kenton resident.

County Teachers Elect Paul Furniss President

Kirkpatrick Man Chosen Head of Group at Meeting Here Saturday; M. A. Povenmire is Vice President and Miss Isabelle Smith, Secretary.

Paul Furniss of Kirkpatrick was chosen president of the Marion County Teachers' association in session Saturday at the Central Junior High school. Other officers elected are M. A. Povenmire, of Meeker, vice president, and Miss Isabelle Smith of Waldo, secretary.

The responsibility of teachers in times of depression was stressed in the morning addresses by W. S. Cay of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Teachers' and Pupils' Reading circle and L. W. Reese of Columbus, high school supervisor of the state department of education. The speakers pointed out that teachers particularly must give the best in them during times of stress as schools operate when nothing else does and they must show the people better teaching than ever before. The depression has its value, they said, in that it causes teachers and school officials to take account of themselves. The teachers are taking their responsibility seriously, the speakers said.

Rayburn Speaks

Suggestions of C. B. Rayburn, county superintendent of schools, adopted at the meeting as permanent policies of the association were, first, seeking to utilize every minute of school time and second, securing good teaching through the thorough preparation of teachers and intelligent assignments. The idea of reducing to a minimum the loss of school time through dismissal of schools for all occasions except legal holidays was unanimously adopted by the association. The school year will be continued longer this year and hereafter for all dismissals for such events at the county fair, state conferences and other meetings.

B. A. Stevens of Columbus, director of research of the Ohio Education association, was the afternoon speaker. Parts of his address follow: "The worst enemies of the public school system who seek to avoid their just proportion of financial support are the holders of vast amounts of intangible wealth. They are the same people who have made the schools what they are by their demands for the prevailing type of education facilities.

Hold Conferences

Conferences after the address were held by the various departments of the association. Those in charge of these conferences were rural and lower grade teachers, Miss Jessie Wells, primary supervisor; supervisors and music supervisors, Supt. Rayburn; home economics teachers, Miss Agnes Cooper of LaRue; science teachers, Arthur T. Owen of Meeker and Latin teachers, Miss Anetta Nicholson of Prospect.

The association decided to next meet Dec. 3 at the same place. Details of the meeting have not been fully determined.

The fury of a woman scorned! I pitied but dared not warn her to be more careful about "B. O."

The OTHER WOMAN'S STORY

ROMANCE cannot live when carelessness about "B.O."—body odor—creeps in. Men instinctively turn from the girl, women shun the man who is guilty.

To this day she hates me—blames me for stealing him away. But it was her own carelessness that cost her his love.

Don't risk your happiness through over-confidence. Don't feel that you can never offend. Pores are constantly giving off odor-causing waste—a quart daily. We become so used to this ever-present odor that we don't notice "B.O." in ourselves. But others do—instantly!

Play safe. End all "B.O." danger the sure way. Not by trying to cover it up with powders and lotions but by keeping pores clean and deodorized. Frequent bathing with Lifebuoy will do it! Lifebuoy is different from ordinary toilet soaps. Its very smell is different—a pleasant, extra-clean scent that vanishes as you rinse. It lathers more abundantly—leaves you feeling fresher, cleaner. Its creamy, searching lather purifies pores—removes every trace of "B.O."

A complexion secret

"Don't be afraid of soap-and-water cleansing for your face," complexion authorities urge. There's no risk if the soap is as pure and bland as Lifebuoy. Work its gentle, pore-purifying lather well into the pores at night; then rinse. See how quickly dull complexions freshen and glow with healthy radiance.

Local Anglers Get Good Catch of Black Bass

All the little black bass in the Whetstone river are today mourning the loss of five of their big brothers, in fact some of the largest bass pulled from the river in recent years. These bass found their way onto the hooks of two fishermen's poles Sunday and shortly afterwards were reposing in frying pans in two Marion homes.

Leroy Cole of east Church street and Roy Retter of 326 Hane avenue were the lucky fishermen who returned yesterday with over 12 pounds of bass in five catches.

The scene of the catch was the Whetstone river north of Claridon. The occasion was a sort of celebration of the return of Mr. and Mrs. Cole from Tiffin several weeks ago where they had made their home for about a year and a half.

Two of the fish together weighed about five and one-half pounds and were considered to rank among the largest bass ever pulled from the river. The largest was about three pounds.

Retter and Cole used both artificial and live bait.

To Hold Meeting.

Members of the Salvation Army advisory board will hold a luncheon meeting Wednesday in the private dining room at Hotel Marion, it was announced today by C. Z. Zachman, president. The business session will be held in connection with the luncheon promptly at noon.

Coll had $4,000 in his pocket. Several other members of his gang each had $1,000 or more in currency.

The murder Friday of Joe Mullins—a "Dutch" Schultz gangster—and the bombing of a garage a few hours later provided the clue which snared Coll. The number on the license plates of the car used by Mullins' slayers and on the car used by the garage bombers was obtained. Thus it was discovered that the same machine was used in both crimes.

Account of Roundup

A policeman saw the car in a garage. Headquarters was notified, and 200 detectives were thrown into the area. A man giving the name Vincent De Lucia called for the car and was arrested. On information obtained from him other arrests were made, including two women and Dominick "Toughy" Adierno. Commissioner Mulrooney said Adierno was in the car with Coll when the baby murder was done.

Coll was first arrested when he was 11 years old and was sent to the Immaculate Virgin mission. Thereafter he served short terms for larceny, unlawful entry and similar crimes. Until last March he was regarded as a lieutenant of "Dutch" Schultz, but in recent months he has been at war with Schultz, police said, over beer privileges in the Bronx.

EDISON LOSING IN FIGHT WITH DISEASE

"Menlo Park Wizard" Feeble and Tired After Rally from Relapse.

By The Associated Press

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Oct. 5 — The lamp burned dim for Thomas Alva Edison today—but it burned.

Feeble and tired, the "Wizard of Menlo Park" rallied this morning after a relapse in which his own physician, Dr. H. S. Howe, admitted, "it was really worried."

His condition was described as "mentally drowsy," yet he was able last night to take some nourishment with relish and announced "I enjoyed my supper." He slept fairly well.

Throughout the long night a special police detail watched the house. Dr. Howe after issuing a night bulletin describing Mr. Edison's condition as much worse than before, said he looked for no marked change for one or two days.

Many messages and inquiries arrived at the Edison home.

Two cablegrams from the Vatican touched the Edison family very deeply. The messages sent by the papal secretary of state at Vatican city, through Cardinal Hayes at New York read: "Kindly send information regarding the health of Mr. Edison," and the next message, "The holy father desires further information regarding the health of Mr. Edison. Please ask family direct and inform them of the holy father's deep interest."

John Eyre Sloan, Mr. Edison's son-in-law, answered the pope, that Mrs. Edison and family "sincerely appreciate the deep interest of the holy father."

The inventor is suffering from uremic poisoning, gastric ulcers, diabetes and Bright's disease.

Special to The Star

KENTON, Oct. 5—The scheduled trial of Howard Dunlap, 26, Napoleon youth who was to have been tried in common pleas court Wednesday upon an indictment charging him with stealing a county automobile, reserved for the use of the sheriff and his deputies, passed out of criminal court assignment when the prisoner changed a former plea of not guilty to guilty.

Dunlap taken before Judge Hamilton E. Hoge pleaded guilty to stealing the automobile, and was sentenced.

The youth was captured here July 30 after a running gun battle in which Cecil Winebrenner of Kenton was slightly wounded in the right leg. He had attempted to defraud a local filling station operator of gas and oil, an affidavit filed by Kenneth Arnett set forth.

FARMERS PREDICT SEVERE WINTER

By International News Service

CHARDON, O., Oct. 5—It looks like a hard winter. That is, if you want to believe Geauga county farmers who have tilled the soil in this vicinity 50 years or more and have faithfully followed nature's signs.

"Trees are literally dropping under the weight of a huge nut crop and that's one sure sign of a hard winter. But there are others.

Thicker corn husks were reported by most farmers this year, and muskrats are building thicker houses than usual.

Grubs and worms burrowed deep into the ground this fall and farmers claim that is one of the surest signs of an approaching cold winter.

Burglar Stops To Eat, Surprised by Farmer

MT. GILEAD, Oct. 5 — It's getting so a burglar can't eat a meal in peace.

When Hubert Wright, farmer, of one mile east of here, returned to his home yesterday afternoon he discovered a man sitting at the kitchen table. Although he had an entry to the homes of the best families, the man did not think Wright looked the part of a delighted host and disappeared through the back door. Wright gave chase but the man escaped.

Four dollars in money and a large quantity of food were missing. Entrance was gained by breaking a door lock.

CAPONE TRIAL OPENS IN CHICAGO TUESDAY

75 Witnesses Called by Government n Income Tax Hearing.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 5—Seventy-five witnesses, including bullet-marked Johnny Torrio, former Chicago gang chief, have been called by the government as witnesses at the income tax trial opening tomorrow, of Alphonse Capone. Torrio was brought back to Chicago after six years of exile in Long Island. He was once the head of the gang of which Capone is chief.

The government alleges that Capone failed to pay taxes on a six year income of $1,038,654, derived from his liquor gambling and vice interests. There are six felony and two misdemeanor counts in the indictment. If he is convicted on all of them he will face a maximum sentence of 32 years and a fine of $80,000.

A conviction, with Capone on his way to a cell in Leavenworth, Kan., within a few weeks was predicted by federal officials as the outcome of the gang chief's challenge to the government to prove him guilty. The defense, however, has not disclosed its plants. Capone pleaded guilty to the charge two months ago but later withdrew the plea when it became certain that Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson would not consent to any arrangement with the prosecution whereby Capone would receive a short sentence in exchange for admitting his guilt.

Judge Wilkerson is the man Capone is scheduled to face tomorrow. He is the same jurist who sentenced Capone to six months for contempt of court last spring for failure to respond quickly to a grand jury summons.

DAD EXECUTES COURT DECREE

By International News Service

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 5—Given his choice of whipping his son or paying a $25 fine, Mike Nianik chose "the easiest way" on the advice of Police Judge Bradley Hull, and performed what is commonly known as a fatherly duty.

"What your son needs is a good licking," Judge Hull told the father of John, 18, who was being arraigned on a charge of trespassing on railroad property. The court had fined the youth $25 and costs, which the father would have had to pay.

"If you will take him up on the fifth floor of the jail here and give him the right kind of a licking, I'll remit the fine and costs," Judge Hull told the parent.

Nianik though for a minute, and then said "come on," and court was recessed for a short time. When the two again appeared before the court, the boy was crying and chastened. Judge Hull held to his word and the case was dismissed.

TURTLE MARKED 40 YEARS AGO FOUND

By International News Service

MILLERSBURG, O., Oct. 5—The finding of a land turtle, believed to be more than 50 years old, has recalled to memory a boyhood prank of Gerald Lepley, Killbuck sportsman.

Forty years ago, September, 1891, Mr. Lepley caught a land turtle and carved the date and his initials on the back of the four-legged reptile and then turned it loose.

The incident was forgotten as the years rolled on and apparently the turtle had left the country. Last week, however, R. L. Holman of Killbuck found a land turtle on the Lepley farm west of Killbuck and after examining it, found the dim outline of initials and a date carved on the turtle's shell.

Mr. Holman brought the turtle to Killbuck where its shell was cleaned so that the carving could be made legible. Here the initials "G. E. L." and the date "Sept., 1891," were discovered carved on the back of the turtle. The turtle, after 40 years of meandering, was found within a few hundred feet of the place where it was released in 1891.

REFORMED PASTOR ASSUMES DUTIES

Rev. R. W. Hucke Takes Up Work at Marion Church; Reception Tonight.

Rev. Robert W. Hucke preached his first sermon as pastor of First Reformed church to a large audience yesterday morning. His sermon, "The Simple Fait of Christ," was from the text, Matthew, 11:27-30.

Tonight the congregation will give a public reception for Rev. Mr. Hucke and his wife and small son, at the church at 7:30. Rev. Mr. Hucke was introduced to his new congregation at the Rally day services yesterday morning, by E. L. Cleveland, superintendent of the Sunday school. The Rally day program drew a large attendance.

Rev. Mr. Hucke spoke as follows last night: "These wonderful words, 'Come unto me,' exercise an irresistible influence over us by virtue of the delicacy of their beauty and their enchanting charm. However, their real appeal is in the common denominator of Christ and men,—namely, that of one's burden. The burden of Christ is that men might be saved.

"We want to be famous, we desire pleasure either for the Advancement of the Kingdom of God here on earth or for our own selfish ends. Most frequently as we reduce these desires we find that the answer will be 'Self.' And so we have the simple call of the Savior, 'Come unto me'—come away from yourself and selfish interests, and come unto me you who are so heavily burdened and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you for my burden is light."

GAMBLING IN COUNTY HIT BY PROSECUTOR

Laxity of Law Enforcement in Morrow County May Bring Action; Investigators Seize Slot Machines.

Special to The Star

MT. GILEAD, O., Oct. 5—Morrow county and village authorities may face charges of failure to enforce laws following the confiscation of gambling equipment by state investigators, it was indicated here today.

State investigators called here by Prosecutor Fannie Myers have completed a series of raids in which thousands of dollars worth of slot machines and other gambling equipment were confiscated.

The investigators, headed by D. J. Licardi, started work here several weeks ago when they were asked to investigate a shooting at Fulton in which Jefferson Blake of Marion and Clyde Davis were arrested.

Licardi said, as a result of his investigation, that in several villages poolrooms and gambling places were permitted to operate all night. He indicated that action would be taken against authorities charged with enforcing laws in these places.

Neither he nor the prosecutor would make any definite statements on the course of action they are planning to follow. Licardi refused to tell reporters what state department he and his men are representing. It is thought that they were sent from the attorney general's office.

Slot machines and gambling devices were confiscated at Johnsville, Edison, Cardington, Fulton and Williamsport.

Ralph Hoard of east of here was arrested on a charge of possessing intoxicating liquor after the investigators had made buys from him. He was fined $250 and costs in probate court. The state men were accompanied by deputy sheriffs.

Ask Police Aid.

The assistance of Marion police in locating relatives of Grant Lee who is ill in the Hamot hospital at Erie, Penn., was asked by Erie officials in a telegram received by the police this morning. The condition of Lee, who is thought to have relatives in this city, was given as very serious by the Erie officials. At noon today the police had been unable to locate any relatives of the man.

Ohio Man Fills Nine Jobs, Gets $25 Year's Pay

By International News Service

WELLINGTON, O., Oct. 5—Here's a man who really isn't a bit overpaid. He holds down nine jobs to earn an annual salary of $25.

He is Arthur Hewitt, mayor of Rochester, a small community eight miles west of here. In addition to being mayor, Hewitt is head of the city council, head of the village volunteer fire department, deputy state fire marshal, health officer, tax collector, acting justice of the peace, general utility man about the school house, and the entire board of public affairs.

There isn't much doing in Rochester, however, so Hewitt doesn't have to spend very much time on his nine jobs. Most of his activities are centered upon his 100-acre farm.

The town clerk, Dwight C. Mann, is Mayor Hewitt's chief assistant and the highest paid official in Rochester. His annual salary is $50.

Speech Comes High.

An interesting characteristic of former President Coolidge's magazine article repeating his known intention not to be a candidate in 1932 is its length—2,800 words. Mr. Coolidge's reputation for brevity appears to have been laid aside when he started to write his daily column, now suspended for reasons unknown.

When his statements were an incidental part of his duties as President, Mr. Coolidge said precisely the same thing a few years ago in ten words—"I do not choose to run for President in 1928." There was, of course, no excuse to read anything into that statement. There is no excuse to read anything into his recent statement, but things will be read into it, just as in the previous case.

Mr. Coolidge, enjoying life on his estate in Vermont, has reason to speculate pleasantly on this peculiar inability of the public to understand what he means. As long as he can continue to demand and get two dollars a word for his explanations, and as long as he requires a couple thousand of words to get them across, depression shouldn't sadden the Coolidge household.

The slump in the shipping business has caused the United States lines to defer the building of the two fast liners to cost $30,000,000 each until there is evidence of the coming of a business revival. Unquestionably good business judgment, but it will not tend to help the unemployment situation any.

Signs of the Season.

On the corner lots of a thousand town and cities, gangs have discarded their old taped bats and formless baseball gloves for underinflated footballs in various stages of decrepitude. Instead of coming home late for summer with a smashed finger, Junior reports somewhat later these days with a trampled hand and a missing tooth.

Clothing has taken on more substantial appearance. Straw hats and summer shoes have gone the way of the birds that sang in the morning only a few weeks ago. Owners of fur coats are beginning to wonder where they put their storage checks last spring.

Tanned faces that radiated post-vacation health last August are beginning to get a worn, leathery look. Canoes, swimming, and that perfect twenty-five-foot putt seem a long way back in history. An advertisement warns of the danger of radiators freezing during the first cold snap.

At 8 o'clock the moon comes up, huge, lazy and rolling in a burnt orange mist. Stars twinkle coldly, in a soundless heaven of crystal mist. In the arbors the last bunches of grapes hang limply, pleading to be plucked before frost, and in lawns and fields the grass has been stilled by the warning that winter lurks just behind the tempting blue haze of October's fair weather.

Premier Sir Richard Squires having failed in both New York and London to negotiate a loan of $8,000,000 to meet Newfoundland's pressing financial needs, Miss Jeannette M. Lewis, Canada's famous woman financier, arranged for credits totaling $109,000,000, about fourteen times the amount needed, $10,000,000 of which are at once available. There's some system in having a spinster citizen such as this in time of need.

A Real Hungry Boy.

A few days ago five men acting as judges of an apple-pie baking contest in New York City found themselves in a maze of uncertainty. They had twenty-five pies, all well above the average in quality, to grade, and in such a way that the hundreds of women present, some of them with entries in the contest, would be satisfied.

So they sent out scouts to find one real hungry boy, and the thing was no sooner said than done. Twelve-year-old Francis De Grasse tried the pies, smacked his lips, tried them again, no doubt, and the winner was selected without fuss or quarrel.

Here's the germ of another plan to save the United States, or even the world, if any one happens to be interested. A twelve-year-old boy, let it be pointed out, doesn't make many mistakes about the things that matter most. When he's hungry he knows what he wants and gets it, with the aid of luck. He isn't fooled by people who might have ideas of imposing on him. He likes you or he doesn't, and that's all there is to the matter.

A twelve-year-old boy, in short, whether it be a matter of apple pie tasting, friendship, comedy, school books or playing halfback on the neighborhood team, goes right to the point and either gets what he went after or gets his mind on something else and forgets about what used to be or what might have been. He understands, or rather he never has been talked out of, the advantages of direct action. But, of course, since his isn't a "grown-up" philosophy it's hardly to be supposed that it might offer anything helpful for getting business out of the contrivers.

A Great Modernist.

There are many to deny that Sir William Orpen, British painter, deserves the honor of being the greatest modernist, but there are as many to affirm that he does. Sir William, who died last week, obviously was standing on the top rounds of the ladder of his profession, his time and his group, else there would be no controversy over him.

His art will live, and those who will see it a hundred years from now will know more about it than those who now quarrel over it. But Sir William, a man of great character and unusual habits, may quickly be forgotten. It is time to appreciate him now.

One anecdote is sufficient to show his nobility and courage of character:

He was commissioned by the imperial war museum to paint a group of pictures dealing with the negotiations closing the World war. One was to be a room in the palace of Versailles in which were to be grouped the statesmen and military and naval leaders credited with the triumph of the allied forces.

Sir William delivered the picture. In it were no victorious chiefs. In it was no note of triumphs. It portrayed the coffin of the unknown soldier, flanked by two uncloathed living soldiers wearing steel helmets and standing at parade rest, against a background of the hall of mirrors at the Versailles palace. The painting was rejected and Sir William lost a huge commission, but an intense controversy resulted and the picture was described far and wide. Sir William smiled. He knew that his message had been heard, and he didn't regret the loss of the money.

Concerning his unusual habits, it is sufficient to repeat what was well known among his friends. He slept twelve hours a day. He was an intemperate smoker, but compensated for it as much as possible by habits otherwise good. He ate four light meals and walked from ten to fifteen miles a day. He was an extraordinary character of such attractive brilliance that national boundaries could not contain his fame.

Senator J. Hamilton Lewis expresses the hope that President Hoover's proposal will result in the revision of the Versailles treaty, which "was written in passion and sealed in fate." It may be said that there are others—and many of them, too—who entertain the same hope. It is not impossible that many of the ills from which the world is suffering today may have had their inception in that passion-written and hate-sealed document.

There Are No "Navy Czars."

In the public discussion of President Hoover's drive to reduce naval expenditures and the opposition to the drive, some commentators have used the expression "navy czars" in referring to the advocates of a big navy.

This is palpable unfairness, and the people should be quick to detect and criticize it. Among the advocates of a big navy there may be certain men whose motives are not above blame, but it must be remembered that high ranking officials are not open to censure for wishing to make the United States proud of a "bigger and better" navy. That idea has been drilled into them from the moment they set foot on a man of war. They are being paid to maintain the navy in accordance with the best traditions of that institution, and they are doing it.

The report that certain naval officials, anticipating President Hoover's reduction of the naval budget, were attempting to block the way by starting agitation for building the navy up to the strength allowed in the London treaty has resulted in a general "freezing up" among those officials whose utterances bear weight. They realize the delicacy of their positions and are taking the safe course of silence. They have been taught that one thing is their duty, and now a wave of resentment against further increases in armaments has swept their feet from under them. They are more deserving of pity than castigation.

The navy, officers and enlisted personnel, constitutes as fine a body of men as could be assembled anywhere. There are no "navy czars"—no officials whose sincerity and genuine interest is not above question. It merely happens that in the United States, which is leading the way in disarmament, any individual who has chosen a career of preparing for and waging warfare is likely to find his views at variance with the views of the majority of the people, who are sick to death of spending millions for a cause with which they are not in sympathy.

Sir Eric Geddes, director general of transportation to the British armies during the World war, has joined the ranks of the Londoners who have assailed the Pershing memoirs, denying that the Allied morale was ebbing in 1918 and that training with the British was detrimental. But then, any story of the World war which wouldn't arouse criticism couldn't possibly be a story of the war.

Editorial Opinion.

NEVER A PERFECT CRIME.

Dr. Carleton Simon, New York criminologist and former deputy police commissioner, told the New York State Association of Chiefs of Police the other day that the "perfect crime" has never yet been executed. This is important as well as interesting, because there have been many criminals, cursed with the pride of craftsmanship, who have planned "perfect crimes," and occasionally a student of the ways of criminals is convinced that the scientifically "perfect crime" is entirely feasible.

The answer, as we may construct it from Dr. Simon's statement, is that perfection in the carrying out of any criminal plan is wholly visionary. The plan may be elaborated to the last intricate detail, until it seems 100 per cent. proof against error or chance of detection. But apparently nature abhors perfection in anything. We readily accept the idea that the perfect man has never been produced, and it is quite as logical to assume that there has never been a perfect criminal. And if there has never been a perfect criminal, of course there can be no perfect crime.

Human nature is prone to error, and that is why the perfect crime has never been executed. Dr. Simon said that some bit of evidence always has and always will be left behind by the criminal. In charting his intricate course for the successful covering of his tracks there is invariably something that he forgets. "Life-long customs of individuals creep into their acts and every crime bears somewhere the stamp of personality left behind unknowingly by the criminal." Dr. Simon is convinced that there is telltale evidence even in the crimes that appear most baffling. What is required is an adequate degree of intelligence and reasoning power in detecting the clues and interpreting their significance.

For the most part we are inclined to agree with Dr. Simon in his conclusions, and there will certainly be general agreement with his statement as to the desirability of accumulating and preserving identification records. There is even something to be said for his opinion that every person, upright as well as criminal and questionable beings, should be fingerprinted, with a record on file in some central identification bureau.—Providence Journal.

Foods for a Diabetic.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Many persons who are suffering from diabetes do not know exactly what to eat. They are given numerous instructions as to what to do and what not to do. Consequently they and their families become confused. This makes the choice of the diet unnecessarily difficult.

In the first place, let it be understood that the diabetic is really not a very sick person. With adequate care in his method of living and diet, his life need differ very little from that of others.

The difference between the diabetic and the normal individual, is that the former is unable to take care of excessive quantities of carbohydrates. By this I mean the starches and sugars. When taken into the body, all carbohydrates are ultimately changed into glucose, or sugar.

Since the diabetic is unable to digest and absorb sugar, there is an overflow of it into the blood and urine. This is why diabetics should avoid sugars and starches since these foods increase the amount of blood sugar.

However, don't forget that diabetics must eat a sufficient amount of food every day. Since the carbohydrates are reduced, the body must obtain its nutrition by having more of the proteins and fats.

Clear soups, meat—except liver—fish and cheese are permissible. Such green vegetables as spinach, celery, cauliflower, cucumbers, watercress, sorrel, kale, string beans, romaine and lettuce are highly recommended and some of them should be included in the daily diet. Endive, tomatoes, acid fruit, as oranges, grapefruit, lemons, sour apples, currants and gooseberries are permitted. Sweet fruits, however, should not be eaten more than twice a day.

Most diabetics fail to understand why fattening foods are recommended. The body must be given a certain amount of heat and this is supplied by fats. On this account, with present knowledge, it is advisable that fat foods, such as cream, butter and salad oils, be eaten.

Nuts, gluten, bran biscuits or other specially prepared flours for breads, may be added. Tea and coffee may be in the diet, providing sugar is not added.

It is very simple to remember that all diabetics should carefully avoid the following foods: sugar, starches and liver. Such vegetables as lima beans, potatoes, beets, peas and turnips are to be avoided because of their excessive carbohydrate content.

It is important that your physician be consulted and that he advise you weekly as to the progress you are making. This is best determined by frequent examinations of the urine and blood, noting the changes in body weight. When a more rigid diet is necessary and certainly where insulin must be given, the personal supervision and advice of your physician are essential.

Claude Bernard's Biology.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

It has been said of Claude Bernard that he will always rank as the great master of chemical physiology—in its broader outlines. Present day students of digestion, excretion and the disorders of chemistry within the body and their treatment, of necessity must follow in Bernard's footsteps. He made the first epochal study of the pancreas and its functions. Although he did not discover certain vital things about the pancreas, it is no exaggeration to say that he laid the foundation for the modern treatment of diabetes and allied diseases.

Claude Bernard was born at Saint Julien near Villefranche, in France, on July 12, 1813. For a time he was undecided whether to become a playwright or a man of science. Finally he went to Paris, studied under Magendie, a great authority on the study of living tissues, and received his degree of doctor of science, having taken his degree of doctor of medicine ten years earlier. In 1854 he was appointed to the chair of physiology in connection with the faculty of sciences, and in 1855 succeeded Magendie as professor of experimental physiology at the College de France.

During the first years of the second half of the nineteenth century, Bernard did his greatest work. He concentrated his researches upon a study of the liver and the pancreas. In a study of the latter organ, say his biographer, Sir Michael Foster, the physiologist: Bernard at one stroke made clear its threefold action. He showed that it on the one hand emulsified, and on the other hand split up into fatty acids and glycerine, the neutral fats; he clearly proved that it had a powerful action on starch, converting it into sugar; and lastly, he laid bare its remarkable action on proteid matters. However, Bernard failed to discover what is known as the "internal secretion" of the pancreas, a kind of juice, which passes into the blood, with profound effects upon the chemistry of sugar taken in the food.

Bernard also made some remarkable discoveries concerning the liver. He showed that the liver modifies the sugar which reaches it, turning it into a substance called "glycogen," which simply means to "sugar-maker." Sugar is a chief source of energy in the animal body; and the liver allows enough to pass on for the bodily needs. If, however, the amount of sugar in the blood is insufficient, the liver, as if endowed with conscious forethought, transforms part of its store of glycogen back into sugar, and sends it forward for use.

Three times Bernard was awarded the grand prize of the French Academy of Sciences. He was the first French scientist to receive a public funeral, his death occurring February 10, 1878.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

A Washington Daybook.

BY HERBERT FLUMMER.

Washington, Oct. 5—That serious-minded, seldom-smiling senator from Michigan—James Couzens—is giving a new meaning to that old description of the United States senate as "club of millionaires."

There have been many men of wealth on the roster of the senate, but there have been few of the Couzens type. He makes a million dollars shape up about like a five-dollar bill to most men.

His offer of a million dollars to the city of Detroit for the unemployed is an example, to say nothing of his benefactions in other fields.

It is estimated that his gifts to charitable interests and public institutions in the past twelve years have totaled almost $17,000,000. His greatest hobby is the relief of crippled children.

There is a hospital in Michigan which has an irrevocable trust fund of $30,000,000 placed there by the senator to "promote the health, welfare, happiness and development of the children of Michigan primarily, and elsewhere in the world."

* * *

But Senator Couzens has a definite theory about that, as he has about everything else. He is fearful of pauperizing unlucky people through charity.

He believes that dealing with children who come into the world handicapped by crippled limbs is the best method of escaping this danger.

So he endows hospitals for them. Scores suffering from infantile paralysis go at Couzens' expense to the Georgia spa, where Governor Franklin Roosevelt, of New York, believes much of his recovery from that disease was accomplished.

Frank in his utterances and actions, Couzens is regarded as the bulldog of the senate. When he gets set on an idea, he usually stays set.

* * *

He has carried on a feud with Andrew Mellon, secretary of the treasury, for a long time. His idea for years has been that Mellon is not so good in the post.

And it makes no difference to him that other people might praise the shy little Pennsylvanian and call him the "greatest secretary of the treasury since Alexander Hamilton."

He clings to his opinion.

It is characteristic of the man that when he was told that he could obtain a million-dollar reduction in income tax on some stock, due to an unpublished bureau of internal revenue ruling, he replied:

"Of course, I turned the proposition down. * * * I thought the bureau was right."

When Dixie Got Its Name.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

How Dixie got its name is interestingly told by C. B. Galbreath in his story of the life of Daniel Decatur Emmett, in which he proved beyond doubt the right of that Ohioan to the credit for writing the song that has come to be the song of the Southland. It was in September, 1859, and Emmett was employed by Bryant Brothers in minstrel work at a music all in lower Broadway, New York. One Saturday night one of the Bryants told Emmett that he wished him to write a "walk-around" and have it ready for the following Monday evening. It must be catchy, have a savor of the South and carry an appeal.

He started to work that evening, but could not get into the swing and confided to his wife that he feared he would fail. At her advice, he slept on the order, she promising that he could have the room to himself for the work the next day.

It was cold and rainy that Sunday, the 18th of September, 1859, and as Emmett with his violin tried to pick up an air that would fill the requirement, he repeated to himself what showmen who have covered the South often observe when they feel the coming of the first cold weather in the fall, "I wish I were in Dixie."

With these words, which the circumstances suggested to him, he followed the notes of his violin as it for the first time fastened what has come to be one of the best-known popular songs of America. Long before the day ended Emmett had outlined the song and committed both words and music to paper. It was submitted to Mrs. Emmett and she pronounced it excellent.

"And how about a name?" he asked. "Why," replied Mrs. Emmett, "it has named itself. The name is Dixie." The song was sung the next evening, and proved a success from the start. The name of the song appears on the title of the copyrighted frontispiece as "Dixieland," but the name it is best known by today is that which Mrs. Emmett suggested the day it was written, "Dixie."

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 5—Diary of a modern Pepys: Merrily up and abroad, coming upon Saul Flaum, the bookseller, and we discussed one of the outstanding rats of the town. Later meeting Aimee and Hamish McLaurin, whom I have not seen in years and breakfasting at noon at Lou Schwarz's mansion.

Motoring with my wife to the Gene Tunneys in Connecticut to drive home their week-end visitors, the Henry Sells, a motor cycle constable at Cos Cob waved us to the curb. And all affrighted and silent at prospect of goal. Yet he merely informed us he was guiding us to Tunney's home.

In the evening to George White's "Scandals," which I think the very best show of the year. And the most celebrities I ever saw in a theater. So at the intermission talking to Paul Whiteman, Constance Talmadge, Marion Davies, Townsend Netcher, Jack and Evelyn Mulhall, Eddie Cantor, Bob Kane and others.

* * *

Rudy Vallee rather definitely disconcerted his hooters—of which this writer is a platoon or so—and proved in his theatrical premiere that he is more than a high nasal radio crooner. Vallee in a forthright manner ambled amiably through the "Scandals" revue with hardened old troupers, showing neither amateurishness nor stage fright. He accepted the constant joshing of stage mates with perfect and professional complacence. Those who predicted he would prove a gawkish figure are sneaking up back alleys. His poise, diction and modesty created critical rave next day.

On a street in the east Forties is something new in barbershop grandeur. A modest brass proclaims: "Haircutters to gentlemen. Tonsors formerly with the Raquet club, the Ritz, Paris, and Chepheard's in Cairo."

* * *

Incidentally barbers called into aristocratic arena to minister to customers in their homes are no longer receiving these summonses. Such trips resulted in two dollar fees for hair cuts and one dollar for shaves, with a minimum tip of one dollar. Fortunates who indulged such luxury were usually those who wished to be in touch with the ticker during the market hours. Now it doesn't matter, so they visit the shops like hoi polloi.

Eugene O'Neill's proposed three-nights-running trilogy called "Mourning for Electra" is furnishing dinner table talk all ready. I hope not to see it. "Strange Interlude" gave me enough of his playwrighting from now on. Among intellectuals this is rankest upstarity. Yet I find that as a general rule those who run a fever over O'Neill plays have conniption fits over "The Bridge of San Luis Rey." In other words ninety out of 100 do not know what it's all about. Or am I too noisy?

* * *

I notice, too, a musical melodrama is being readied for Broadway. Usually melodrama to music is mawkish or farcical. Jack Donahue's last success "Sons-of-Guns" was an exception. Phil Baker and I bellowed right out loud at that one.

And on the Bowery a sweatered entrepeneur is preparing to open a "Gay Ninety" beer hall, such as the old Atlantic garden. There will be sawdust on the floor, prop ladies-in-waiting at tables, bristly haired bouncers with a tiny stage offering tear jerking ballad singers and the like. Only near beer will be served. It is a gag to remind of other days and as a novelty may attract awhile.

Elsie Janis did not remain long after her extended absence from New York. She opened her home near Tarrytown, old friends flocked in—but she missed her mother, who so long occupied the home with her. One night late she was seized by a stinging nostalgia and began calling up friends to tell them good-bye. The next morning she was flying to California. She never expects to visit the house again.

City of the Sky.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

Now that Spain has become a republic it will be interesting to see what effect modern government will have on the colorful and picturesque aspect of her ancient cities.

If, for example, the charm of unique places like Cuenca—"famed city in the sky"—is destroyed, Spain will certainly lose a great deal as a magnet for tourists.

Cuenca, within a half day's journey of Toledo, is 1,200 years old and unique as far as I know. It is situated on a rugged promontory that looms up between the Jucar and Huecar rivers. Many of the streets in the town are mere flights of steps and some of the houses stand on the very edge of the canyon.

Walk out on one of the balconies of these structures and you will enjoy a magnificent view of the beflowered gorge and the Castillian plain that seems to extend to the end of the world.

People intrepid enough to live in these houses, you would think, would fear nothing. Perhaps, that is why some of the proudest conquistadores of the days when Spain ruled the world came from this now sleeping provincial town.

Cuenca produced in those brave days Alphonso de Ojeda, companion of the daring Columbus and Andres Hurtado de Mendoza, viceroy of Peru. Many of the fine old dwellings that bore the name of the most haughty Castilian families in all Spain are crumbling now in ruins, but the famous cathedral, founded in 1173, still stands.

But as magnificent as the cathedral is and though it is an outstanding edifice among all the beautiful houses of worship in Spain—the view from the top of the town is what makes you catch your breath and causes you forever to remember Cuenca.

For many cities have beautiful churches but that mighty vista of cliffside, woodland, plain and lowest of all the curling river, is a sight that few who have seen it will ever be able to forget.

This mighty carving of nature, like the Grand canyon in Colorado, beggars description. Standing on the highest point of Cuenca you feel as though you were one with the ages.

KILLINGS ACCOMPANY BALLOTING IN CHILE

Unofficial Reports Set Election Dead at 10; Montero Named President.

By The Associated Press

SANTIAGO, Chile, Oct. 5—Juan Esteban Montero, middle-aged newcomer to politics, succeeded today to the presidency of Chile in an election attended by disorders and marked by at least five deaths.

Montero decisively defeated his radical opponet, Arturo Alessandri, receiving 183,428 votes to Alessandri's 100,000. Two Communist candidates received only 3,785 votes between them.

Official figures showed that five persons were killed in yesterday's election disorders, all in Santiago. Unofficial reports said at least ten lost their lives. Sixty persons were injured in the countrywide rioting, and approximately 300 arrests were made.

President Montero takes up the post vacated by former President Carlos Ibanez, who was overthrown in July and fled into Argentina.

BOSTWICK GROUP PLEAD NOT GUILTY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5—Former Franklin county Probate Judge Homer Z. Bostwick, and four others, indicted for alleged blackmail, entered pleas of not guilty today and were released under bonds of $1,000 each. The case grew out of an alleged conspiracy by the judge and the others to recover a diamond ring the judge had presented to Mrs. Opal Eversole. Bostwick was ousted from the bench on petition of some 1,400 citizens.

In addition to Bostwick, the defendants are Franklin Rubrecht, former first assistant prosecutor, Nathan Hirsch, a paint salesman, Charles McGannon, a deputy clerk of the probate court, and John Cooper, Columbus attorney. Bostwick, reported too ill to appear in court, put in an appearance later in the day. Bostwick's petition in error in the ouster proceedings was to be heard during the afternoon.

FIND LIQUOR CACHE ON ADAMS ESTATE

Rum Runners Hide on Property of Cabinet Member; Three Captured.

By The Associated Press

SCITUATE, Mass., Oct. 5—Police today seized 600 cases of assorted liquors valued by them at about $50,000 on the summer estate of Charles Francis Adams, secretary of the navy. Three men found in the Adams garage were arrested. Thomas Maluney, caretaker of the estate, said he knew nothing about the liquor.

The men arrested were Jacob Siegal, 30, of Roxbury and Harry Gordon, 33, and Louis Gordon, 26, both of Dorchester. Two other men escaped by jumping through the garage windows when the officers entered the building.

Discovery of the cache was made by Patrolman John Stonefield and Malcolm Chase of the Scituate police who became suspicious of several automobiles driven in the direction of the Adams estate. They found the liquor, which apparently had been landed from a vessel this morning, in a barn. The adams estate is on the water front.

While Chase stood guard over their catch, Stonefield summoned additional police and coast guardsmen. An automobile, believed by police to have been used by their captives, was seized.

MAN FOUND SLAIN NEAR SPRINGFIELD

Murder Mystery Revealed With Finding of Body in Cemetery.

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., Oct. 5—The nude body of an aged man, bearing many bruises was found buried today in a shallow trench in the Rose Hill Memorial Park cemetery, four miles east of Springfield. Authorities expressed the belief the man was killed by a motorist, who stripped the body and buried it in an effort to cover up the death.

The victim, with gray hair and about 60 years old, was found by the cemetery caretaker, Max Snyder. An examination of the body disclosed the man's shoulder had been crushed his head battered and his body bruised in many places.

The trench in which the body was buried is located near a barn in which cemetery implements are housed. Rain water from the roof of the barn drains off through the trench. Snyder noticed this morning that the trench was clogged, and that two planks had been placed across it immediately behind the barn. He soon uncovered the body.

SIDNEY MAN GIVEN PROHIBITION POST

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 5—C. C. Barton of Sidney, today was appointed a state prohibition inspector by Governor George White, to succeed George A. Baynham of Columbus, who was dismissed last week by Commissioner Clarence Sears.

Barton, former head of the Sidney schools, was a state prohibition agent until last June, when he was let out because of a shortage of funds in the prohibition department.

Governor White said he had received a copy of Baynham's letter to Sears, in which the dismissed agent charged he was discharged because of raids he made on certain clubs in different parts of the state without obtaining authority for the raids from headquarters here. The governor said he looked upon the Baynham case as a "closed incident" and that he had approved the agent's dismissal by Sears.

attitude soon disappeared. He seemed to take an increasing pleasure in the prospect of the wedding.

The stable itself seemed to reflect something of Fourth's excitement. Cars rushed up the drive, paused briefly in the circle, and then rushed away again. The upper floor of the house was cluttered with dressmakers and their gear.

Sam was anything but normal. Her mind was a jumble of small but important details, all of which demanded immediate attention but did not seem to be getting it. People, as people, became of less and less importance. They practically ceased to exist. She neglected Peak, who complained bitterly, but with a certain humorous resignation. She forgot all about Martha, and she neither saw nor heard from Nelson for nearly a week.

Nelson finally telephoned one afternoon when she was in the midst of a protracted session with her wedding dress. There were three pins projecting from one corner of her mouth when she answered the bell. "Hello," she said cheerfully but with a certain note of impatience. "Is that you, Nelson? What can I do for you?"

Nelson said briefly: "I want to see you Sam. I want to talk to you."

"All right," Sam answered absently, and tried to look over her shoulder at the line of her train. "Come on out this evening."

"No." He was urgent. "It won't wait until this evening. I want to see you this afternoon—right away. Can't you meet me at my apartment in half an hour?"

"What?" Sam opened her mouth in astonishment so that the pins fell unheeded to the floor. "You're mad, young man."

"I'm not mad," Nelson contradicted doggedly. "I'm quite sane, and I want you to do what I ask. It's important."

Oh." He had her complete attention at last. "What's the matter?"

"I can't tell you over the telephone. You must meet me at my apartment right away. It's very—"

"Don't tell me again that it's important." Sam bit her lips. Then she suddenly gave in. "All right, I'll come. I'll come immediately, but if I find you're wasting my time, heaven help you!"

Sam dismissed her dressmaker, changed her clothes, and drove to town. She was definitely puzzled and vaguely troubled over the whole affair.

Nelson met her in the tiny entrance hall. He nodded gravely. "Thanks for coming, Sam. I hated to ask you, but—"

Sam laughed. "I think you're going to say that it's important. All right. Let's hear about it as soon as possible." Sam walked into the living room, and as she crossed the threshold she nodded to the person who was sitting in the shadows beyond the window. "Hello, Martha." Sam began cheerfully. "Are you—"

Suddenly the words died in her throat and she stood perfectly still. The person in the chair was not Martha. It was Eugenie Frye.

Nelson coughed nervously. "Martha isn't here, Sam. You know Mrs. Frye, don't you?"

Eugenie got to her feet and smiled. "Miss Sherrill and I know each other pretty well. I guess. How are you, Miss Sherrill?"

Sam gasped. "But—"

"You're surprised." Eugenie nodded calmly. "I don't blame you. You didn't know that Mr. Aldersea and I even know each other."

"No." Sam could only shake her head weakly. "I didn't know."

"How could you? Yesterday was the first time we got together. It's funny how things happen."

"Sit down, Sam." Nelson's nervousness seemed to be increasing. He indicated a chair and then sank down into a corner of the davenport. Eugenie also sat down, and the three regarded each other silently.

Eugenie was the first to speak. "Well," she said briskly, "let's get on with this. Miss Sherrill is wondering a lot of things, and I don't blame her."

Sam said faintly: "I don't understand."

"Of course not, but you will when we explain." Mrs. Frye frowned thoughtfully. "Have you any idea what I'm going to talk about, Miss Sherrill?"

"I think so," said Sam in a low, troubled voice. "I think you're going to talk about Fourth."

"That's right. We're going to talk about your step-father, and what we're going to say may sound sort of surprising. It may sort of bowl you over."

"No. It won't bowl me over." Sam shook her head and looked straight into Eugenie's eyes. "I think I know what you're going to say. You're going to tell me something about Fourth's invention, aren't you? You've found out something about it—that it's not on the level, probably."

Protect Tissues for Lovely Complexion Beautician Says

BY JOSEPHINE HUDDLESTON

A SKIN which appears excessively oily, may in reality be of the extremely dry type, the oily appearance being caused by the too ample amount of oil which exudes through the pores and gathers on the surface of the skin. This is called the oily dry skin. Sounds a bit complicated doesn't it? But let me explain:

It is true that frequent and thorough cleansings aid in keeping the skin lovely, but the real character of the skin is guided by this fine network of tissues and muscles that function beneath its surface. When the pores become enlarged, permitting too much oil to escape, it means that the underlying structure is not functioning properly, thus the skin is being deprived of its rightful nourishment. In such a case an actually dry condition results although the skin may, to the casual eye, appear frightfully oily.

Skin tonics or a mild astringent will prove shrinking to the pores, and frequent applications of nourishing cream will aid in strengthening the muscles and tissues that are being depleted of their natural oils. The nourishing cream should be sufficiently refined to penetrate the pores of the skin, and the skin tonic or astringent should be only strong enough to shrink the pores without causing the skin to peel or become dry.

Skin cleansing occupies about five minutes. This means that for that length of time the face and throat is being massaged or rubbed with a wash cloth, cleansing cream or pad of cotton saturated with skin tonic. This alone serves as exercise or massage to the fine understructure and is the real reason why an upward and outward movement should be employed.

Frequent cleansings are important in correcting such a condition, because each thorough cleansing acts as a temporary corrective. But as more oil exudes through the pores and more grime collects on the surface of the skin, the cleansing regimen should be repeated.

I can't tell each one of you the best method to follow for cleansing your individual skins, but whether soap and water cleansing creams or liquid cleanser is used for the purpose, it must be remembered that the process be thorough and frequent.

By frequent I mean three thorough cleansings each day, and a liberal amount of nourishing cream should be patted over the face and throat each night before retiring and allowed to remain on until morning. The nourishing cream will help replenish the natural oils which have exuded through the pores, and so proves strengthening to the understructure as well as refining to the skin. In my next article I'll discuss the subject further.

"Heart of a Wife"

BY ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is Resentful at Being "Left Out of Things."

"I'LL have the table here, right away," Mr. Underwood said, when the surgeon had expressed his desire to hurry along the emergency operation which he intended to perform upon the wounded Chinese messenger lying unconscious in our library.

"Very well, we'll get ready right away," the surgeon said, and in the next few minutes there seemed to be a continuous procession in and out of the library. Jim and Harry lugged in the big kitchen table. Katherine dashed to the kitchen and returned with the sterilizing pan filled with instruments and Dicky, who did not appear until nearly the end of the preparations, was immediately drawn into the room by Harry Underwood with as much gratification as if he were another professional nurse.

Katherine appeared at the door but once, after she had come back with the instruments and looked at us oddly.

"Will you girls see to it that we are not disturbed?" she said. "I won't need you in here. Harry and Dicky can do everything that is necessary, and there's no use of using you both up, also."

It was a plausible remark, but it did not ring quite true to me. I had the feeling that if I had not been there, she would have asked Lillian to help her, that she was sparing me because of the strain I had been under in finishing the fourth act of my play.

Playing a New Role

It was a queer little reaction which came to me as I sat with Lillian outside the door of the library behind which we knew there was being waged a desperate battle for the life of the wounded Chinese messenger. Always had I shouldered the heaviest part of the domestic burden in any emergency. It was an odd experience for me to be set aside. I was not sure that I relished it, although I knew that it was only part of the plan for sheltering me from all unnecessary work outside my writing which Dicky had planned and which all the members of the household appeared to be carrying out. I should have been highly gratified but with the perversity of —femininity—possibly of human nature — I resented being kept away from the center of things. I had no desire to be the temperamental literary star sheltered from all common-place things.

"How do you like thumb-twiddling?" Lillian asked, after our first five minutes of silence.

"I don't like it at all," I said. "I'd much rather be in there in the middle of things than waiting out here in this suspense."

"Same here," Lillian agreed, "but Katrina's the boss and, of course, Harry and Dicky have had a lot of experience in the ambulance work. Harry especially."

"Yes, that's true," I agreed listlessly. "But tell me, do you know what they're doing?"

Madge and Lillian Needed

"It isn't very complicated," she replied. "There's a broken rib with the jagged edge perilously near the lung. There are other broken bones to be set, they battered him up rather brutally, and there's a glint concussion for which of course there is nothing to do—they won't try trepanning on a kitchen table."

"Will they dare to anesthetize him in his condition?" I asked.

"He's pretty well under the anesthesia of death." Lillian said grimly.

"If he revives under the pain of setting a broken bone, it probably will be a good sign and they'll have a dose of ether ready so they can give him a whiff or two occasionally, if it becomes necessary."

I asked no more questions. The picture of that inert figure in the library so near the border line between life and death obsessed me. I think Lillian saw it also for she did not speak again and we sat in silence until Mr. Underwood opened the door and came out, the deeply etched lines in his face alone betraying the nervous strain which he had just experienced.

"Alive?"

Lillian just breathed the question, and her big husband answered her gravely.

"Only just," he said. "Will you both come in now?"

"Madge?" Lillian's voice held a surprised note, and again I felt that faint resentment at being considered out of things.

"Especially Madge," Mr. Underwood replied. "We've got to have you, Lady Fair, he turned to me with a ghost of a smile, "because of your wonderful memory. We'll need you too, Lil, if you can remember any of your shorthand from mediaval time."

"I have a little," Lillian said modestly, and I, who had had recent experience of how much she had retained of that early knowledge, spoke emphatically.

"She's a whiz at it."

"Thank you," Lillian tossed a smile at me. "But will you tell me what you want of Madge's memory and my shorthand?"

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

TODAY was wash day for my mother, but yesterday was get washed day for me. My Ant seems to have more ginger in her elbow now that the weather is getting coolish, and she bears down harder and digs in deeper than she does when it is warm.

When me and Jubilee woke up this morning and I had laid a little while I wasn't mad at Nibs any more. That was a good trick he played on us. I would probaly have played the same kind of a one if it had been me that got bumped in place of him. I might have played a better one than his even because I am smarter than he is, but I don't know what it would of been. That was certainly a good one.

I jist Jubilee down and went down to feed my face and go out and milk the cows, and the whole bunch was there, except Nibs, because he has to milk Old Man Scanlun's cow and don't come around at milking time any more; and we were all trying to make up our minds what we would do to him when we caught him over at the vacant lot where we all gether up our cows to take them to the pasture. We all thought it was a good trick and we made up our minds we wouldn't do anything to him unless he got too cheety about putting it over. Then I took my milk and went in and fed my face and Tousius and Maggie were there, and they said Feeble wasn't coming because she had to mind the twins, and just then Feeble came, and she said her mother run her out of the house because she almost dropped one of the twins, and she looked cross-eyed at me, and that made me think her mother don't know her so well as I do. She pretended on purpose, I'll bet.

When I finished wrapping my face around my breakfast I got up and got my hat and said to Tousius to come out in the yard and I would show her something; I thought maybe I could get away from my ant, but she said, "You stay in there, Thomas Aristides, and I'll show you something," so I obeyed and she finished her self-fed and got up and came out to the kitchen and pulled down my suspenders and patted my shirt down in my pants and got back and with my suspenders down and my shirt out I had to bring milk my mother, so mad I couldn't do anything, and Jubilee would get hold of my suspenders and shirt down and tuck in up of them and pull my pants and shirt down again and pull them up again. "I can't do it if you don't stand still," she said. "You are three cuts too long, and I pinched it, and I pinched it a little bit of Jubilee and Tousius pinched it a little bit of me and I pinched it a little bit of Jubilee and got it out of it. My mother said she would bring in fresh pins

Babies GAIN when bowels are strong, regular!

BABY isn't gaining his six or eight ounces a week? Constipation may be the reason. It is behind most of a baby's troubles. Colic. Fretfulness. Gas. It keeps Baby from accepting or retaining the proper amount of food.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is good for any baby. It is a prescription for the bowels written by a famous doctor—one who attended over 3500 births without loss of one mother or baby—a record believed unique in American medical history.

Half a teaspoonful of this simple prescription often relieves occasional troubles like that in a few hours. If Baby is bottle-fed or for any other reason is regularly constipated, give half a teaspoonful daily until the little fellow is happy; gaining as he should.

The pleasant, syrupy flavor of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin commends it to children. Its gentle action makes it ideal for women. It doesn't sicken. It cannot gripe. So it is a blessing to elderly people. And it is thoroughly effective for the most robust man. All druggstores.
